

I wanted to voice my concern what the NAB is trying to do to satellite radio. I have had my XM satellite radios for the past four months and I have not regretted getting them yet. Since I have gotten XM I have not even turned on the regular radio since. It was my decision to pay for what I listen to because I feel that I do not get what I want from free radio. If I wanted to listen to commercials and stupid skits all day I would listen to regular radio. I want to listen to music and nothing else and that is why I pay for my XM. XM offers me stuff that I never get on the regular radio; I get weather whenever I want, not just a certain time each hour. I get traffic reports whenever I want instead of whenever there is a wreck or congestion. I can listen to many types or music, sports, and talk radio that I would never get on the regular radio. I cannot stand people or organizations making my decisions for me. If I want to pay a fee each month for my XM radio that is my choice and no one else's. If the NAB is scared of what satellite radio is doing, they need to stop trying to mess with people and fix their own problems. Maybe one day they can get back to where they used to be.
